

Governor Smith Calls Speaker Machold Liar

First in Many Years That Lie Direct Has Been Passed in Gubernatorial Campaign—Hotly Denies Charge of Trying to Manipulate Education Bill for Political Purposes.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 28.—Declaring that the time has arrived in the present gubernatorial campaign to get down to "cold facts," Governor Alfred E. Smith today passed the direct lie to Speaker H. Edmund Machold in the dispute over education.

"I have made up my mind," the governor said after sending for the newspapers at his rooms in the Biltmore Hotel, "that the time has arrived in this campaign when we are got to get down to cold facts. The statements made by Speaker Machold about education deserve to be said something I hate to say but I find no better way of expressing it."

This marks the first time in years that a direct lie has been passed in gubernatorial campaign in this state. The fight between Governor Smith and his Republican opponent, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, now expected by politicians to develop into one of the bitter in the state's history.

Both Speaker Machold and Colonel Roosevelt have charged in public speeches that the Governor, through his proposed consolidation bill in 1922, sought to gain control of the education department for political purposes.

As the consolidation bill was originally drawn the education department was not excluded and had measure been passed by the legislature, the appointment of the state commissioner of education would have been lodged with the governor.

Governor Smith claims that the inclusion of the education department in the bill was a stenographic error and that he directed it be corrected as soon as it was brought to the attention.

Speaker Machold has charged that the governor and the Democratic leaders "deliberately" failed to exclude the education department from the bill.

Yesterday the governor charged that Machold had "willfully and deliberately" misstated the facts. Machold replied in a speech last night at Bronxville that he was telling the truth and the governor misstated the facts.

After the governor had passed the direct lie to Machold he added: "And I see by the papers that Roosevelt says he got the information about the education matter from Machold."

When the newspapermen were leaving the room the governor said: "I've stood for a good deal from Machold in the last year or two but I think it's time now that I told him what I think of him."

The governor took another fling today at Colonel Roosevelt and the Republicans on the executive budget.

"I see by the papers," he said, "that Elihu Root sat on the platform with Roosevelt last night and listened to the Colonel deny the executive budget. I remember when Root came down from the rostrum in the constitutional convention not only to defend it but to urge the Republican members to vote for it to do away for all time, as he expressed it, with inevitable government."

"While Root did not dispute what Roosevelt said about the executive budget it is a fact that he was careful not to tell his intelligent friends that Roosevelt was right."

Individual, Not Country, Counts

Colonel Roosevelt Deplores Attitude of Certain Americans Toward Americans of Foreign Birth—In American to Discriminate Against Them.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 28.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today addressed the Foreign Language Bureau at a meeting at the National Republican Club, in which he pointed out the attempts to discriminate against certain Americans of foreign birth as being strictly un-American, which all true lovers of this country should deplore.

Colonel Roosevelt said: "There is nothing that I have less patience with than the snobbish attitude of certain of our American citizens toward the Americans of foreign birth. It is ridiculous in the extreme."

"The only Americans of real native birth are the American Indians, everyone of the rest of us came originally from some other country. My own forebears came from half a dozen different countries, Holland, Ireland, England, France and Germany."

"The real American doctrine should be and must be that men and women should be judged on what they are individually, and not on account of the fact that they come from any particular country, not in the fact that they come from any particular race or creed. It is the worth of the individual which makes the citizen."

"When I speak of Americans of foreign extraction I speak with real feeling and affection for many of them have not only been my friends in civil life, they were more, they were my comrades in the war."

"I had serving under me in France, Sergeants Braun, Schultz, Kramer, and Corporal Schwarz. They were born and educated in Germany, and no more gallant or better Americans fought in our army. Sergeant Braun was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and Corporal Schwarz gave his life."

"Sergeant Samari and Private Belacqua, Kalava and Rano were born in Italy. Samari particularly distinguished himself by his gallantry, although all were gallant."

"The Sergeants Murphy, mainstays of their particular organization, Hennessy, of gallant memory, Leonard, Magee and O'Rourke were all believe, born in Ireland. All of these men reflected credit on this country."

"Sergeant Hansdroun, born in Greece, was promoted from private and served with distinction from beginning to end."

"Sergeants Masons, Crapahousky, Brenner and Dubinsky were Jewish, one came from Bohemia. One of them is dead, each of the others was severely wounded. Moscovitz is an east side boy from our own New York city."

"These are only a few of the names which occur to me of Americans born in Europe, who served this country as nobly as is possible. They were all one hundred per cent Americans in the real sense of the word. Anyone who attempts to discriminate against them, or their like, is committing an un-American act, one that all true lovers of this country should deplore."

"Our attitude in this country should not be one of carping criticism towards those of our brethren who have lately arrived on our shores. It should be one of understanding and helpfulness."

"I condemn as un-American the extreme attempts of certain elements in our community to hold them back and prevent their full development as useful citizens."

"We must endeavor to break down whatever barriers exist between those who have lately arrived and those of us who have been here for a longer period. In the interest of the country, as well as in the interest of these folks, we must broaden their opportunities rather than curtail them."

"In the future their children, with our children, will be partners, and many of the leaders in thought and development in this country."

"Just after the war, in 1919, I published a book called 'Average Americans.' In it I spoke of these men for I like to think of them as average Americans. Now, as then, I feel most deeply in this matter."

Smith Attacks Economy Promise

Takes Colonel Roosevelt to Task for Promising Economy in State Administration—Democratic Leaders Predict Re-election.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 28.—Completely recovered from the cold which bothered him for several days, Governor Alfred E. Smith spent the greater part of today in his rooms at the Biltmore Hotel conferring with Democratic leaders and outlining speeches he will make during the remainder of the week in his final campaign drive in Greater New York.

From the leaders the governor continued to receive assurances of his re-election. They said they were certain, after a careful survey, that his prediction of his re-election by between 350,000 and 400,000 was conservative. The governor said the leaders told him they were sure he would run as well, if not better, in Greater New York than he did two years ago.

The governor is scheduled to address two meetings tonight, the first at a public school at Richmond Hill, Queens, the second a negro rally at Liberty Hall, Harlem. This will mark the first time in the campaign that Governor Smith has made more than one address in a day.

In a speech last night at Mt. Vernon, Westchester county, Governor Smith took to task his Republican opponent, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, for promising the kind of economy in state administration that featured the administration of Governor Nathan L. Miller.

"When Mr. Roosevelt promises the same kind of economy that we received under the last Republican administration," the governor said, "he means that every human endeavor, everything calculated to promote the health and happiness of our people and to promote human life and lessening suffering is to be neglected, and governmental activities are to be confined to a cold blooded machine for the administration of routine matters."

LaFollette Talks Of Party Finance
Says Great Masses of People Are Financing His Campaign—Preparing for Another Invasion of New York State.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 28.—Remaining in seclusion on his private car here preparing his Brooklyn speech tonight, when, for the fifth time he invades New York state, Senator Robert M. LaFollette today again turned his guns on both old parties "for soliciting large contributions from beneficiaries of special privilege" for use in the election.

His own campaign, LaFollette said, "has been financed by the great masses of the people."

Whatever may be the outcome of the presidential race, the Progressive campaign, LaFollette declared, already has proved these two important things:

"First, that millions of dollars are not necessary to conduct an honest campaign, and

"Second, that it is not necessary to solicit campaign contributions from wealthy corporations or individuals who very naturally expect special favors if the campaign is successful, but that the people themselves will furnish the money, to advance a cause in which they really believe."

"We set out in this campaign," he said, "to prove that the people were willing not only to vote to regain possession of their government, but also to pay the costs of the campaign necessary to establish that end. We believe that the people were no longer willing to surrender possession of their political machinery to big business, which demands a handsome dividend after the election returns are all in."

SHERIFF STARTS ANTI-GUN DRIVE IN DUTCHESS.
The accidental killing of Leonard Pikaart, prominent New Jersey state official, at Hopewell Junction Sunday by Edward Kapetz, 12 years of age, has resulted in an order being issued by Sheriff Everett R. Davis of Dutchess county to all deputies to seize Robert rifles, shot guns and air guns, possessed by children under the age of 18, and in the future to hand in the names of all dealers who sell guns to boys or of persons purchasing guns and presenting them to boys under the age limit.

The sheriff stated that the law has been openly violated and in the future charges will be brought against the parents for improper guardianship and the child will be charged with juvenile delinquency.

YOUTHS CHARGED WITH VIOLATING MANN ACT
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Trenton, N. J., Oct. 28.—Philip Ross, 19, and William Molnar, 19, both of Danbury, Conn., were being held today charged with violation of the Mann Act, after police had found Rita Smith and Mae Adams, missing Carmel, N. Y., girls, in a rooming house here.

Ross leaped through a window to the ground twenty feet below when police came for him but was captured after a chase, they said.

Supplement Talk With Statements

Democratic Candidate Anxious to Get His Views Before Public, Especially on Supreme Issue of Campaign.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 28.—John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, issued today the first of a series of daily statements calculated to show the electorate where he stands on national and international issues.

"The American people," the candidate said in explanation, "are entitled to know the policies which I will seek to put into effect if elected president of the United States."

"The supreme issue of the campaign," his statement continued, is: Shall the attitude of mind of the national administration be one of liberalism or one of reaction?

"Shall our national policies be framed with primary regard to the interests of a few or to promote the welfare of all?"

"Shall the American government be made to embody the idea of every man for himself?"

"Shall the American people through this government reassume the moral leadership of mankind?"

"Such an issue as this transcends every question of today. We face a world wherein the supreme material problem is that of equitable distribution of wealth. The Democratic party stands for the position that law and government policy should encourage the distribution of that wealth with all proper regard for the well of the men who produce it; the Republican party for the doctrine that if we turn the major portion of that wealth to a competent few, they will themselves distribute it for the benefit of the many."

"The Democratic party stands for the utmost possible democracy in industry, the Republicans for a glorified oligarchy."

Texas Oil Co. Safe Burglarized
Some time Monday night thieves broke into the small one-story frame building of the Texas Oil Company on Deyo street, and broke open the safe, stealing about $90 in money.

Entrance was obtained by breaking open a window. The safe was opened by knocking off the dial and getting at the combination.

Judging from the manner in which entrance was obtained to the safe it appears to be the work of a gang of thieves who are working the Hudson river valley.

In the Wonders Company store on Wall street was opened in a similar fashion.

The burglary was discovered this morning when employees appeared at the office to go to work, and it was reported to the police department.

Coolidge Predicts His Re-election
President Departs From His Customary Utterances to Express Positive Belief He Will Remain in White House Four Years More.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 28.—President Coolidge predicted his own election today.

With the campaign drawing to a close and the decision at the polls near, Mr. Coolidge dropped some of the ultimate reserve that characterized his utterances since entering the presidential race and told callers at the White House that he fully expected to be there for four more years.

Mr. Coolidge considers, he told inquirers, that he has stated his position adequately on every outstanding question at issue in this campaign. He made no direct reference to the various "charges" of evasion brought against him by his opponents, John W. Davis and Senator

Charge Stranger With Forgery

Joseph Morin, a Frenchman Who Said He Lives in Lawrence, Mass., Arrested Monday Afternoon on a Charge of Forgery—Hearing on Saturday.

Joseph Morin, 29 years old, a Frenchman, who attempted to have Irving Von Beck of Larkin's shoe store at No. 17 Broadway, cash a $25 check Monday afternoon, was arraigned before Judge Robert G. Groves in police court this morning on a charge of forgery, and the hearing was adjourned to Saturday morning. Bail was fixed at $2,500, and in default of bail Morin was committed to the county jail.

Monday afternoon Morin called at Larkin's shoe store and was waited on by Mr. Von Beck. Morin picked out a pair of boy's shoes costing $4.50 and said that all the money he had was a dollar bill and a check for $25.

He proffered the check to Mr. Von Beck who refused to cash it. The check was drawn on the State of New York National Bank and made payable to John Smith, and purported to be signed by Albert Kreisig of 769 Broadway.

Morin said that he was going down the street and to put the shoes aside and he would be in later. In the meantime Von Beck called on Kreisig's store, but Mr. Kreisig was not in. The person who answered the phone stated that Mr. Kreisig had not made out the check.

The matter was called to the attention of the police and Sergeant Hanley arrested Morin.

At police headquarters a number of blank checks on various banks were found in Morin's pocket, together with business cards of Mr. Kreisig and other firms, some from New England.

This morning Mr. Kreisig was present in police court and stated the check presented by Morin to Mr. Von Beck was not one of his, but was a forgery.

It is thought that Morin tried to cash the check in other stores but was unsuccessful.

Decision Today On Tax Returns

Attorney General Stone, After Cabinet Meeting, Promises Announcement of Department of Justice Attitude This Afternoon.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 28.—The cabinet today discussed the publication of income tax returns, Attorney General Stone expounding his views on the legal phases of the question.

Stone said an announcement of the department of justice's attitude would be made at 4 p. m.

Legal experts of the department submitted an opinion to the attorney general but he was able to give it only a brief study before going to the cabinet meeting.

The attorney general declined to make known his views on the legality of the publication prior to the afternoon conference although there were indications that he was in agreement with Secretary Mellon who declared there was no authorization under the law for newspapers to publish the names of taxpayers, together with the amounts they paid to the government.

It was stated officially at the White House that the administration was in favor of the legality or illegality of the tax publication was not crystallized.

Masquerade Dance Wednesday.
The entertainment committee of Franklin Lodge, No. 37, K. of P., will have a masquerade dance at Pythian Hall, corner of Broadway and Thomas street, Wednesday evening, October 29. Zucca's orchestra will furnish the music.

Robert M. LaFollette, but conveyed the impression these will be allowed to go unanswered so far as he personally is concerned. So many of these "charges" are flying about in the closing days of the campaign, he told inquirers, that it would not be feasible or proper to answer specifically.

Only a few minor speeches are on Mr. Coolidge's program for the week remaining of the campaign. One of these will be at the White House tomorrow to a group of New York advertising men.

The president expects to vote in Northampton by mail although the decision on this point is not yet definitely settled. It is understood that Mr. Coolidge was to make the trip to Northampton and return in time to hear the returns at the White House.

Hunters Locate Ocean Treasure

Trawlers Sent Out By Wealthy Syndicate Locates Steamer Merida Which Sank Off Virginia Capes In 1911 With Treasure of at Least $2,000,000.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 28.—Thirty fathoms down, the sunken treasure sought by the trawler Foam and Spray, has been located off the Virginia Capes and only awaits the patient efforts of deep sea divers to recover it, it was learned today.

The Ward Line steamer Merida, rammed and sunk, 55 miles east and a half mile north of Cape Charles, has been located by the treasure hunters sent out from New York several weeks ago by Anthony J. Drexel Middle, Jr., Franklin I. Mallory, W. Hayward Drayton, 3rd, and others.

The treasure seekers expressed regret that their expedition had been given so much publicity and said that the finding of the Merida by using a mile long sweep stretched between the Foam and Spray, was only the first part of the task. Attacks of modern pirates are feared if it is learned that the divers have recovered any part of the $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 known to be aboard the sunken ship.

The Merida was rammed in the dead of the night of May 12, 1911, by the Admiral Farragut of the American Mail Line. Her 137 passengers and crew of 139 were removed safely but the ship sank so quickly that there was no time to remove the jewels and valuables of the passengers, many of whom were refugees fleeing Mexico during the Maderista revolt. The ship also carried a large shipment of gold and silver sent to New York by the Mexican government.

Under maritime law, the Merida and her cargo are prizes belonging to the first to salvage them.

Campaign Close Marked by Hatred
Three Parties Each Claim Victory on Eve of British Parliamentary Election—Campaign Marked by Denunciations and Disorders.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Oct. 28.—The election campaign, which will terminate at the polls tomorrow, is winding up in a storm of hatred.

The opposition press this morning was unanimous in its denunciation of Premier MacDonald while the Daily Herald, the Labor organ, continues its "expose" of what it terms "the machinations of a plot by the press of England."

The real truth of the "Soviet plot" note which M. Zinoviev, its supposed signer, denounces as a forgery, will not be known until after election as there are not sufficient time to determine the truth of the charges made by the president of the Communistic Internationale.

Premier MacDonald, however, has summoned Gregory of the foreign office to Wales, directing that he bring the documents in the case with him.

Disorders continue to mark the closing hours of the campaign. Viscount Curzon was mobbed and two companions knocked out. Lord Beaverbrook was forced to call for police guards in leaving a meeting, broken up by rioters at Millend, and Lloyd George was met with a chorus of "boos" when he tried to speak at Camberwell.

Predictions as to the outcome tomorrow still were difficult to make today, but it seems fairly certain the Tories will gain in seats and may be able to form the next government with Labor as their chief opponents.

Liberal strength seems dwindling. All three factions maintain they will win, however.

Driving Car Without License.
Frank Principe, a Glasco boy, was arrested Saturday evening on Main street, Saugerties, for operating a car without a license. Police Captain Richter made the arrest.

Radford M. Moore of the firm of Everett & Moore, general merchants at Claryville, recently decided that he would take unto himself a wife and on October 11 he was united in marriage to Miss Florence Burton, also of Claryville, by the Rev. Robert Meek, pastor of the Grahamsville Methodist Church, at the parsonage at Grahamsville. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Moore returned to Claryville on Tuesday, October 21, and the following Thursday evening some of the residents of Claryville decided to give the happy pair an old fashioned skimmington.

When night had enshrouded the village there were many dark forms seen hurrying toward the Moore domicile armed with all sorts of noise-making implements, such as horns, tin kettles, etc. At a given signal the skimmington started, but evidently not enough noise was being made to suit some of those taking part for somebody secured a stick of dynamite.

The dynamite was placed alongside the front walk, about twelve feet from the porch, and there discharged. There was a terrific crash and every window in the front of the house was shattered, with all of the rear windows in the house were cracked by the explosion.

Fortunately no one was injured when the dynamite went off, and those taking part in the skimmington hurriedly departed for their homes. Mr. Moore, when he awoke the damage wrought, got in touch with the State Troopers and reported the explosion. The State Troopers made an investigation and later arrested Archie Diluff, a young married man with a family, who resides at Claryville. He was taken to Monticello, where he was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000 and the trial set down for next month.

Since the skimmington no more dynamite has been discharged in the village and whenever the name is mentioned, men look at each other and ask:

"Dynamite? Where have I heard that name? What is it for? How do you spell it?"

Fascisti Swear Fealty to King
Second Anniversary of Fascist March on Rome Celebrated by Italian Militia—Massed Issues Stirring Military Appeal.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, Oct. 28.—Bayonets gleamed over the ranks of black shined citizen soldiers as the solemn ceremony of swearing allegiance to the king was reported today in the broad Passetziana Archeologia near the Colosseum. It was the second anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome.

Legion after legion of the Fascist militia, followed by large detachments of the regular army, navy and air forces passed in review before General Gustavo Fara, Fascist leader and officer of the regular army.

Premier Mussolini, who was the reviewing officer of a similar ceremony at Milan, issued the following special order to his Fascist followers today:

"Black shirts, legions, officers and men: On this second anniversary you are called upon to perform a solemn rite, to give your oath of fealty to your king."

"Four square your iron legions offer once more to the nation a superb display of strength and discipline. With bayonets raised by the thousands skywards your devotion to Fascism, whose burning passion you carry today in your breasts more than ever before."

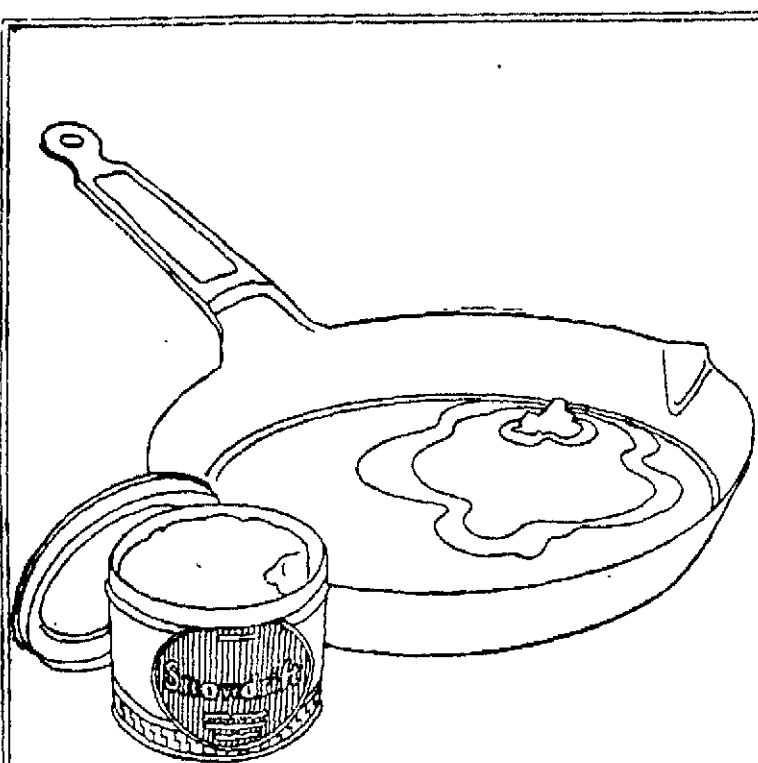

"Long live the militia!"

Dedication of Accord Church

Rochester Reformed Church Will be Dedicated Wednesday—Afternoon Service at 2 and Evening Service at 7:30 O'clock—Interesting History of Church.

On Wednesday afternoon, October 29, the new Rochester Reformed Church building at Accord, will be dedicated. The building has been used for the public worship since September, 1923, but has never been formally dedicated. The event promises to be a great day in the history of the old Rochester Reformed Church.

The present is the fifth church building that has been erected on the present location. The first a log building, stood but for a few years, and the dates are not known. About 1743, owing to the depredations of the Indians, a stone fort with interior for church purposes was erected. This was taken down and another stone building put up in 1813, and contained a sounding board and all the modern appliances of that day. It is interesting to note that the interior of his church had its pulpit at one end, with the entrance doors to the auditorium on either side of the pulpit. The pews were, however, so arranged that the audience faced the doors, making it possible for the people to watch for any attack by the Indians who inhabited the surrounding country. This building was also taken down, for after having been used for perhaps forty years the people felt the need for a more modern style of building. In 1860 another edifice was built under the pastorate of the Rev. Cornelius Wykoff. This was a commodious building with seating capacity for 600, with a basement for Sunday School purposes. On July 18, 1901, this building was burned to the ground. Lightning struck the steeple and flames started in a bird's nest, and shortly spread to consume all of the building. The alarm was given and men and women who rushed to the scene were able to rescue from the burning building some of the furnishings, hymn books, Bibles and the large pulpit Bible. During that same year on November 25, work was commenced on a new building and on December 26, 1901, the laying of the cornerstone took place.

This building was used for worship from April 25, 1902, until December 25, 1921, when it was burned by fire. Upon that Christmas morning the people of the community were alarmed by the cries of fire and upon turning their faces toward the church they saw the clouds of smoke pouring forth from every window and door. Before they could rush to the scene the smoke was too dense and the flames too far advanced to save any of the contents of the church. In a few hours time the entire structure had been consumed by the flames.

On September 25, 1922, work was commenced to erect the present church building. The formal service of the laying of the cornerstone took place on October 15, 1922. The following year in the same month, the church was first used for Sunday service. The church is 30 by 50 feet and presents a very neat appearance. The exterior is finished in stucco.

The date of the earliest beginnings of the church is perhaps unknown. Historians state that in 1701 began the first record of its organization. With the life of the community began the life of this ancient church. It is the opinion of some that the churches at Wawarsing, Marletown and Rochester were off-springs of the mother church, First Dutch Kingston, and that the Rochester church was the first born daughter. At the beginning the Rochester, Marletown and Wawarsing churches were combined into a collegiate group, under one pastorate and a combined consistory. The old records are in the Dutch language.

January 1, 1866, the consistory of Kingston voted that the "good poor" of Hurley, Marletown and Rochester should have the same right to the chest of Kingston as themselves. May 26, 1700, the consistory of Kingston appointed for "Protector and overseer" of a meeting at Mombaccus—"Ouderling" Cornelius Witz and Deacon Lodewyk Hoornbeck. June 18, 1727, the people of Rochester were granted the right to form a church by choosing an elder and a deacon.

The society was incorporated by a certificate executed November 18, 1788. A new certificate of incorporation was filed March 14, 1826.

An interesting account referring to the ministers of this church is given by the historian and is as follows: "For some years the Rev. Petrus Vaz of Rhinebeck, and other officials. In 1732, the Rev. G. W. Mancius was called to Kingston, and the members of this church subscribed to his call on condition "that they should be released whenever they should obtain the services of a minister themselves or in union with other churches." In 1738 and again in 1740 calls were made upon the Rev. Schuyler and Freymoet, but were declined, so that Boettie Mancius continued in charge and frequently visited and preached here until 1749. In 1750 the members of the church of Kingston who resided in Rochester were dismissed to the care of the church of Rochester. In 1751 Jacobus Freylinghuizen, a student was sent to Holland by the churches of Marletown, Rochester, and Wawarsing; after completing his studies at the University of Utrecht, was licensed and ordained by the Classis of Amsterdam. He then sailed for America, but died on his passage over. The Rev. Theodorius Freylinghuizen of Albany, visited this church and preached several times during the years 1752-53. In 1754 the Rev. J. Schureman, of Catskill, N. Y., officiated at stated periods, as did also the pastors of Kingston and New Paltz. At this time a protracted correspondence took place between this church and the Classis of Amsterdam, asking that, since they had gone to such great expense and loss, Henricus Freylinghuizen, brother of Jacobus, be ordained in this country, but for some time they refused; finally they yielded and consented that he be licensed promising that "after three years of faithful labor and study he should be ordained." Tradition says that he was ordained, but history that he was only licensed. Two weeks later he was smitten with small pox, died, and was buried under the pulpit of the old Marletown church, where he first was set apart to the gospel ministry. For two years the church was without a pastor and was dependent on missionaries and supplies."

In 1766, Dirck Romeyn was ordained and took charge of the three churches—Marletown, Rochester and Wawarsing. Of him the historian has written, "He was unquestionably the first man in our church in his day, and among the first in the American Church."

In 1776, the Rev. Reyner Van Nest of Shawangunk, was engaged as stated supply for this church, making monthly journey across the mountains "under great peril" until 1781 when the Rev. Jacob Rutzen Hardenburgh was called. At the early age of 33 Princeton College conferred upon him the degree of D.D. In his day he was justly regarded as one of the pillars of the Dutch church. In 1785 he was called to New Brunswick, New Jersey to become President of Queens, now Rutgers College.

The following is a list of the names of the pastors of this venerable old church with the years they served:

1701—Rev. Petrus Vaz.
1732-49—Rev. G. W. Mancius.

GAFNEY FARMHOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire starting in the kitchen destroyed Saturday morning the farmhouse of Frank Gafney on the Tucker's Corners road two miles west of Highland. The family had been reading mail on the front porch, and when members of the family went indoors they found the kitchen ablaze. Mrs. Gafney and a neighbor, John Plunkett, burned their hands severely. The building was covered by insurance. Highland firemen were unable to check the blaze which gained a rapid headway.

Recognition for Russian Soviet

France Decides to Recognize Russian Government Formally—Action Not a Surprise—French Premier Member of Radical Socialist Party.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Oct. 28.—France this afternoon formally recognized the Russian Soviet government. A note to that effect is being sent to Moscow.

The Petit Journal, in commenting upon Premier Herriot's decision to grant de jure recognition to the Soviets, said that this action placed France in a position to discuss the debt which Russia owes to France.

"The first result of recognition will be the re-establishment of diplomatic relations," said the Petit Journal. "Jean Herriot is mentioned as the possible French ambassador to Moscow."

M. Rakovsky, who has been representing Russia in England, probably will come to Paris.

Premier Herriot's decision did not come as a surprise. Herriot is a member of the radical Socialist party and has maintained a pro-Russian policy since taking office.

At this moment relations between the Russian and British governments are somewhat strained, owing to the Zinoviev letter incident.

Great Britain has recognized the Moscow government and has negotiated a treaty with the Soviets, but it has not yet been ratified by the British parliament. A similar treaty will be effected by France to protect commercial interests in Russia.

Legion Men Have Raft, but No Water in Lake

Legionnaires of Woodstown, N. J., know how disappointed Noah would have been if, after building him an ark, the promised deluge had not been forthcoming to float the said ark. Recently they built them a raft of great dimensions to be floated upon the waters of the Woodstown and vicinity "Memorial Lake," only to find their raft left high and dry on the shores of a waterless lake. As a result of litigation with one of the abutting property owners the lake basin is an excellent replica of the Sahara desert, and, to decide whether or not there shall be water in the lake, the good citizens of Woodstown will go to the polls soon. The Legionnaires have adopted as their campaign slogan, "Fill the lake to float our raft."

KEEPING WELL

Wiping Out Malaria by Destroying Mosquitoes
DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

THE mosquito is the only insect which carries malaria.

It can not be gotten by "night air," the use of stagnant water, living or sleeping in damp or shady houses, or living with another malaria patient.

But mosquitoes are found wherever there are stagnant pools for breeding-places and damp and shady spots for them to live in during the daytime.

In early times, it was noticed that malaria often developed in new countries, with the breaking up of the soil, and disappeared after the land was drained and settled. This was because breaking up the soil caused depressions and hollow places in which water collected. Later on, as the ground was drained, the mosquitoes disappeared, because their breeding-places were destroyed.

The female mosquito lays her eggs, from 40 to 200 at a time, in stagnant pools; on the margins of ponds and fresh-water lakes; in roadside ditches and ruins; even in tin cans and broken bottles.

The eggs hatch in two or three days and the young females soon begin to lay eggs, so that if breeding-places are present, they increase in enormous quantities.

However much of a nuisance they may be, mosquitoes are harmless until they have bitten a malarial patient, so that the disease can be prevented either by destroying the breeding-places of mosquitoes or by protecting all malarial patients from mosquitoes by the use of mosquito nets and screens.

If both of these methods could be followed with complete success, malaria would entirely disappear, just as yellow fever is now rapidly disappearing from the earth.

The breeding of mosquitoes can be prevented by draining all stagnant pools of water and destroying all possible breeding-places. If these swamps or pools cannot be drained, crude oil is put into the water. This forms a coating on the top of the water and when the mosquito larvae come up to breathe, they are unable to penetrate this film and die from suffocation.

Mosquito control was first developed on a large scale by General Gorgas in the Canal Zone. In 1906, when Gorgas went to Panama, there were nearly 22,000 cases of malaria among the 26,000 employees working on the canal. Today there is practically no malaria in the Canal Zone. Wiping out malaria in Panama cost the government $3.50 a year per person, less than 1 cent a day—about the cost of a stick of gum. Pretty good business proposition, isn't it?

State boards of health have worked out methods for malaria control, especially in our Southern states, so that any community can be free from malaria at a very slight expense.

If you have malaria in your family or your community, it's your own fault. Get busy and stop it.

SMITH BLAMES STENOGRAPHER.

Without going into the details of how a bill is passed in the Legislature, it appears certain that Colonel Roosevelt, the Republican candidate for Governor, has the Tammany candidate, Governor Smith, on the defensive. Governor Smith is really squealing, and trying to blame a stenographer for a Tammany attack on the school system of the State. Illegitimate Governor Smith has found it possible to explain away almost anything, but in this particular instance he is in sore distress. This is proved by his attempt to saddle the blame on a typist for what was done, and with his approval, by Tammany to get possession of the department of education.

It is generally accepted that Tammany always had a seething desire to get a grip on up-state the same as it has on New York city. It made this effort not only as to the state department of education, but also as to the farms and markets council. Governor Smith has tried to put the appointment of a commissioner of education in the hands of the Governor instead of permitting it to remain with the state board of regents. To make this change would be to throw the schools into the sink of politics.

During the campaign Colonel Roosevelt has charged Tammany with trying to fasten a Tammany hold-up-state by getting upper hand in the department of education. Colonel Roosevelt has repeatedly charged the Tammany Governor with having this object in view. The Tammany Governor, however, has carefully kept away from the subject until a day or so ago, when he said it was not his fault that a bill aimed to wreck the department of education had been introduced by a Tammany senator. Then he added the illuminating declaration that the clause in the bill to grab off the school system for Tammany was an error by a typist.

That Governor Smith has not been able to give any better explanation of Tammany's purpose than to blame something on a not over-paid stenographer is interesting. The Governor, however, might get away with this defense if he had not for several years shown a disposition to catch the schools and agricultural department. As it is, Colonel Roosevelt has placed the Tammany Governor on the defensive and it is not strange that Governor Smith finds himself in desperate straits ready to blame anything on anybody. But when he selects a stenographer or typist as the one to blame for what a Tammany Senate did, and that which a Tammany Governor apparently approved, it is really remarkable.

Brought into a New York court on the charge of producing an indecent play and exhibiting pictures of the worst scenes therein, Earl Carroll submitted experts to prove that the pictures were "art," whereupon the hard-headed magistrate ruled that the point was not art but indecency and the latter question he was fully competent to decide. He might have added that "art" is now employed as an argument in favor not only of the indecent but of much that is ugly and revolting.

New York's director of Farms and Markets reports that "juice grape receipts in New York city last year were approximately 50 times as great as in 1917 and approximately four times as great as in 1918." Of course people are not eating four times, let alone 50 times, as many grapes as they ate a few years ago—which explains why the grape growers of California, at first bitterly opposed, are now heartily in favor of prohibition.

Another instance of politics strange bedfellows. "You cannot punish a millionaire as a poor man would be punished, no matter how revolting or inhuman his crime may be," said Senator LaFollette in Chicago, and on the platform with him sat his announced supporter, Clarence Darrow, who is credited with saving the necks of Leopold and Loeb.

of the world in September, 1924, were $142,000,000 greater than in September, 1923. We can stand a lot of that kind of ruin.

The impoverished people of the United States burned up $19,467,892 gallons of gasoline in August—an increase of 30,000,000 gallons over July. One might conclude that the people are so poor they don't have money to spend for anything but gasoline.

The name given the new dirigible, Los Angeles (the angels), calls to mind the report that the natives of the hills of Haiti call the aeroplanes employed by scouting American marines "wicked angels."

BACK PAINS.

Physicians are frequently asked regarding the pains that occur in different parts of the back.

Sometimes it is in the "hollow of the back," at other times between the shoulder blades, at back of neck, or even at the lowest part of the back.

When the pains occur, there is the usual "plasters" applied, perhaps not applications, or often massages.

What about these different methods of relieving these back pains?

Well, the idea of the plaster or the heat is all right, and they should be used, but it does seem strange that when you have these pains, perhaps have them often, that you don't try to find out what is really causing the pain.

You see, the pain you have in the muscles is just like a bell, or electric buzzer, that is notifying you that there is something wrong near the muscle, or perhaps in your general condition.

Now what is likely the cause of these pains.

Your improper method of standing or sitting brings the weight to be held up by the back muscles, on the "curves" of the back. You may remember that these curves are at the back of the neck, the bump opposite shoulder blades, the small of the back, and the outward curve below that again.

The muscles at the curves get tired, simply trying to keep the curves from becoming too curved, or "settling down" as it were.

You were meant to stand and sit erect, and doing this will develop the muscles to hold you up properly, and prevent your curved parts from becoming tired and painful.

So if these muscles are painful, heat or other applications will hurry along the fatigue products, and give you some relief.

But standing and sitting erect will prevent the pains.

Pain in back of neck may be due to an infection, between shoulders, to gas in stomach, in small of back to pulling of abdominal contents, and in lowest part of spine to a strain of joint between hip bone and spine.

You can't do your work, mental or physical, if you have a nagging ache in any region of the back.

There is always a cause. Apply your heat or plaster for the time being, but go into the matter with your physician, and he will go at it from the two standpoints, that is from improper standing or sitting, or the possibility of an infection.

Choose Chairman

For Red Cross

Annual Roll Call Drive to Begin Soon With Edgar J. Dempsey in Charge of City and Judge Hasbrouck in Charge of County.

At the special meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross, at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening, the roll chairman for the city and county were chosen and other important business was transacted. Mayor Block, the first vice-president, presided. The minutes of the last executive committee meeting were read by the executive secretary, Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, and approved.

A communication from Frank Coykendall was read expressing his regret that he would be unable to accept the honor of the chairmanship of the Ulster County Red Cross this year, and his resignation was accepted with reluctance and regret. Mr. Coykendall was, however, present at the meeting, and as usual was helpful in suggestion showing his continued and profound interest in the Red Cross.

It was voted to have the presiding officer of the evening appoint three persons to act as a committee to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Coykendall's inability to accept the chairmanship at this time. Those appointed were Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Martin Cantone and Frank Coykendall and they were instructed to report back to the next meeting of the executive committee.

In the matter of the coming Roll Call Drive, Edgar J. Dempsey was chosen chairman for the city, with power to appoint two assistants, and Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck for the county. Tentative plans were made for a get-together meeting of the Roll Call workers just before the beginning of the drive, and the secretary was instructed to ascertain what able and inspiring speaker could be sent to such a meeting by the Washington Division of the Red Cross. Further announcement of such meeting will be made later.

The name of Miss Hegelweid was added to the roster of the executive committee.

A communication was read by the secretary, from the manager of the Washington Division, asking for further production and clothing for those in dire need in Insular possessions and it was voted to appropriate a sum not to exceed 500 for the purchase of necessary material for such production which will be in charge of the production committee of the local chapter.

In the near future another meeting of the executive committee will be called as further plans for the Roll Call materialize.

DOUBT THAT LOWERY WAS KILLED BY AUTO.

Bradley Morey of Maple Hill, Ulster county, told Coroner John A. Card of Poughkeepsie Saturday that the last time he saw William Lowery, who was found dying on the highway near Staatsburg early in September, was on the night that Lowery was fatally injured. Morey said he left Lowery sitting on a stone wall near Rhinebeck. Morey came to Poughkeepsie, Lowery saying he was too tired to walk further.

Coroner Card will continue his investigations in the case. Morey has denied he and Lowery had trouble. The coroner has not determined definitely the cause of Lowery's death, and has not been inclined to believe he was struck by an automobile.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

HOUSE OF LORDS.

The first great popular demonstration in favor of the abolition of the House of Lords was held in Hyde Park, London, forty years ago today, October 28, 1884. Over 100,000 persons attended the meeting and every denunciation of the peers was greeted with wild cheers. The House of Lords had its beginning in the eleventh century, when William I, created 7 peers, who were frequently summoned to consult with their monarch. It was not until the 13th century, however, that the kings of England issued writs summoning the peers to regular parliamentary sessions, at which twelve persons were chosen to represent the commons. In 1640, during "the long parliament," the commons voted the House of Lords to be "useless," and nine years later it was abolished. With the downfall of Cromwell's regime, the peers again became powerful. The first parliament of Great Britain met in 1707. The first Roman Catholic peer took his seat in the House of Lords in 1829, and the first Jewish peer was admitted in 1858.

BEER.

The first brewer, according to the ancients, was Bacchus, who was said to have invented wine, beer and ale (one might also ascribe to the jovial good headachings). In the middle ages the invention of beer was popularly attributed to Gambrinus, King of Brabant, a ruler now thought to have been mythical. It is certain that beer was a favorite of ancient peoples, and that the art of brewing was early developed by the Egyptians and the Chinese. Tacitus, writing of the ancient Teutons, said they were simple and moderate in their food, but inclined to intemperance in the use of beer. It was stated by one ancient writer that beer made from salted grain was in use in Egypt 1960 B. C. Herodotus ascribes the discovery of the art of brewing "barley wine" to Isis, the spouse of Osiris, and a beverage of the same kind is mentioned by Xenophon in 401 B. C. Pliny declared that the Spaniards and the Gauls of his time were very fond of beer, the former calling it "oella" and the latter "oerevisis." In England beer was in common use before the beginning of the Christian era. The Munich and Milwaukee of the middle ages was Patulsum, on the mouth of the Nile, where there was a brewery famous throughout Europe for the flavor of its product.

USE CASTOR OIL.

First Step in Care of Patient Suspected of Infantile Paralysis.

New York, Oct. 28.—While infantile paralysis has not assumed the serious proportions of an epidemic, it has become sufficiently prominent in health reports to warrant a special warning, according to the latest Statistical Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. In view of this situation the welfare division of the Metropolitan is causing wide distribution of a leaflet containing helpful suggestions about the disease.

"Infantile paralysis seems to be increasing rather generally," said the Bulletin. "In Detroit it necessitated postponing opening the schools. Ninety-nine cases were reported during the five weeks ending August 30. Between July 26 and August 28, 33 cases and 8 deaths were reported in Missoula, Mont. In New York, the disease seems to be centering about Syracuse, with a second focus of infection in Oswego. Cases are also being encountered in Oneida, Utica, Seneca Falls, Buffalo and Rochester. An outbreak was also reported from Kitchener, Ontario."

The Metropolitan leaflet details the facts incident to infantile paralysis and advises that if the child appears to have fever, vomiting and marked restlessness, put him to bed and call a doctor promptly. No matter how mild the sickness may seem, get a doctor's advice. Do this to protect your child. While waiting for the doctor give the child a dose of castor oil. Keep all children away until the doctor says there is no danger.

This leaflet also gives advice on the care of children and what to do in case infantile paralysis breaks out in the vicinity of the home.

BACON'S GRADUATION

"Grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "are you going to Brother Bacon's graduation?"

"Grunt, grunt," said Miss Ham, "I didn't know anything about it, but if it is not being held far away I will be only too glad to go."

"It will be held here in the pen," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"I'll be on hand, or rather on foot, or rather on four feet," said Miss Ham.

"What's this I hear? Some excitement?" squealed Pinky Pig's mother.

"Are you going to Brother Bacon's graduation?" Porky Pig asked.

"I hadn't heard about it, but I'll attend the ceremonies," said Pinky Pig's mother.

Then the news began to fly about the pig pen.

"Are you going to Brother Bacon's graduation?" Pinky Pig's mother asked Master Pink Pig's mother, and Master Pink Pig's mother said she hadn't heard of it, but that she would be glad to attend, too.

Pinky Pig and Master Pink Pig and Mrs. Pinky and Mrs. Pink all said they would like to attend.

Sir Percival Pork said he would like to go to the graduation and Sir Benjamin Bacon said so, too.

Little Black Squealer was excited, indeed, when he was told he could attend.

"What is it all about, Brother Bacon?" asked Sammy Sausage.

"Come to it, Sammy, and you'll find out," said Brother Bacon.

So Sammy Sausage agreed that he would not fail to be there.

"But you must tell us just where it will be and at just what hour."

"It will be held in the pen promptly at three o'clock this afternoon," said Brother Bacon.

"Mothers may come and bring the children; gentlemen may bring the ladies."

"All may come."

"Of course, it is considered nice to give the one graduating some flowers."

"Pigweed will do nicely for me."

The pigs all looked at each other and grinned.

"Brother Bacon never forgets something of that sort," they all said.

"Squeal, squeal," I won't be able to find time to get you a bouquet," said Little Black Squealer.

"I have neither the time nor the wish," said Sammy Sausage, "but my

"I Am Gathered Here This Afternoon."

presence rather than my presents will be enough."

"I agree," said Miss Ham.

"So do I," said Porky Pig.

"So do all of us," the others grunted and squealed.

"Well," said Brother Bacon, "I see that I won't have a great mass of flowers or pigweed about me, but it cannot be helped, I suppose."

"It can't be helped if you invite us to come," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"It might be also if you had a banquet in honor of your graduation afterward," suggested Miss Ham, as she twisted her funny little tail.

"That's never done," said Brother Bacon. "At least I'm pretty sure it never is."

"However, it is fast approaching three o'clock and I notice some of you already look as though you would like your afternoon naps."

"So come to the graduation at once."

All the pigs followed Brother Bacon to the big stump in the center of the pen.

And then he made this speech:

"Mr. Chairman, Pig Friends, I am gathered here this afternoon (more than one should be gathered, so that I could rightly say 'we')—but no matter, to hand myself, Brother Bacon, a diploma marking my graduating day."

"But, Brother Bacon," said Porky as he saw Brother Bacon hand himself a piece of pigweed tied with a green ribbon, "from where are you graduating?"

"From having been a small pig to becoming a big pig," said Brother Bacon with a grin, and the pigs all grunted that there had been a great deal of excitement about nothing at all.

SOME CANNING HINTS

When the wild grapes are ripe, jelly, spiced and plain, may be prepared for winter, the juice for drink, and the whole grape, without seeds, as a marmalade.

Wild Grape Marmalade.
Stem the grapes and cook them until very soft, then rub them through a sieve to remove the seeds and add three-quarters as much sugar as grape pulp. Cook until thick. Apples may be added if grapes are scarce, adding an equal quantity cut into small pieces without removing the peeling.

Stuffed Pepper Pickle.—Take twenty small green peppers, one small head of cabbage, two medium-sized onions, one teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon, cloves and mustard, one cupful of salt, a teaspoonful of celery seeds and vinegar to cover. Wash all the vegetables carefully. Cut the tops from the peppers, leaving a bit hanging for a hinge to the cover. Soak over night in salt water after removing the seeds and white pulp. In the morning drain and fill with the stuffing. Chop the cabbage and onions and mix well with the condiments and fill the peppers. Tie the tops on securely in a pack in a stone jar and cover with boiling hot vinegar. Keep the jar tightly covered and in six weeks they will be ready to serve.

Carrot and Orange Conserve.—Take three cupfuls of raw grated carrots, two large oranges, one lemon, one-half cupful of water and three cupfuls of sugar. Cook the carrot and citrus fruits after putting through a meat grinder, until very tender, then add the sugar and when thick pour into glasses and seal as any marmalade. If carefully made it is hard to tell the presence of any carrot except for the rich color. A quarter of a cupful of nuts finely cut may be added and cooked just a few minutes before pouring into the glasses.

In making jams and marmalades it is wise to make but a small quantity at a time, as it sours so easily.

John H. Saxe, County Clerk,
Competent Public OfficialEnviably Record of Public Service, Performed in Most Efficient Manner, Resulted in His Unanimous Choice for Re-nomination.

County Clerk John H. Saxe, the Republican nominee to succeed himself, was born at West Hurley on April 28, 1882, and received his education in the common schools and at an early age engaged in the butcher and livery business which he continued until West Hurley was wiped out by reason of the construction of the Ashokan reservoir.

With many of his neighbors, Mr. Saxe helped to found the new village of West Hurley, where he now resides. In 1913, he formed a partnership with Levi E. DuMont in the store business, carrying on a general merchandise, flour and feed business under the firm name of DuMont & Saxe.

In 1915 County Clerk Saxe bought out the interest of Mr. DuMont and continued the business under his own name until October of 1920, when he sold the business to Charles R. Tiller.

Possessing a strong native attraction and affection for the community where he was born, County Clerk Saxe has been active in helping to build up the present village of West Hurley. He erected several houses there and has been actively identified with other building operations in the village.

County Clerk Saxe's various activities not only endeared him to his neighbors, but they sought to show their appreciation, which they did by electing him collector of taxes. Subsequently they elected him supervisor of the town of Hurley—the first Republican elected to that office in that town in twelve years—and they renewed the display of their confidence in his ability by electing him supervisor for a total of eight years. The same confidence in his ability and worth was displayed in the board of supervisors when they elected him chairman of the body. County Clerk Saxe's intimate acquaintance with the farming industry in Ulster county led to his election by the board of supervisors as the representative of the county legislature among the board of directors of the Ulster County Farm Bureau when it was organized. He has served efficiently in that capacity and is at present a member of the Ulster County Farm Bureau and the Ulster County Agricultural Society. The confidence of the business community has been indicated by his election as a trustee of the Ulster County Savings Institution and as director of the State of New York National Bank.

During his three years as county clerk, Mr. Saxe has displayed untiring zeal to the work of the office, which has been performed with entire satisfaction to the public. The work has increased tremendously by the addition of new duties either transferred from various state departments by the legislature or work of an entirely new kind, such as the issuing of motor vehicle licenses and numerous other details in connection with it. All this work has been performed in a way to command the admiration of every person who has had occasion to visit the office during his term.

Socially, County Clerk Saxe is a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, Free and Accepted Masons of Kingston, Bearer's Lodge No. 333, Independent Order of Odd Fellows; the Hurley Grange and the Ulster County Farm Bureau.

County Clerk Saxe is married and has four children living. It is expected that he will be returned to office by an even larger majority than in the election of 1921.

THREE GOOD REASONS

Since means have been devised to use animals, sans their tails, it is only right and proper that a way to utilize tails should be thought out and executed.

Kolinsky tails are effectively used against a rather high brown satin crown, and beneath is a sable without appendages, tied about the throat with a brown faille ribbon. While it may be difficult sometimes to make ends meet, it is seemingly not difficult to make each play its part.

An alarm was sent in and the New Paitz fire company were soon on their way. After a record run with the new American La France motor apparatus they succeeded in getting a stream of water from a pump house that prevented the adjoining barn from catching fire. The distance from New Paitz was five miles and the run was made in seven minutes. A second fire of the same day was rung at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The fire was in the house occupied by Mr. Andrew on Church street. This was discovered in time and was quickly extinguished by the use of chemicals. And again on Friday about five o'clock the company was called out, the fire this time being in the rooms occupied by Morris Simpson on Main street which was started by an oil stove explosion but was soon extinguished.

Fire Destroys House and $500

Fire of an unknown origin Monday totally destroyed a frame dwelling house at Quarryville, owned by Benjamin Rowe of Saugerties, and occupied by Charles Van Valkenburgh and family. The household goods of Mr. Van Valkenburgh were also consumed, except those on the first floor, which were removed by neighbors.

The efforts of the neighbors were unavailing to combat the roaring flames. This prevented getting out the furniture, etc., on the upper floor. In the flames also there was lost a sum of money approximating $500. This money belonged to Mr. Van Valkenburgh's daughter, Ruth, and Charles Schoonmaker.

Coe Home From National C. of C.

Secretary of Kingston Chamber of Commerce Attended National Gathering Where Matters of Paramount Civic Importance Received Attention.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce was represented at the Tenth annual meeting of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, which was held in Washington, D. C., October 19, 20, 21, 22, by Louis S. Coe, the local secretary, who was accompanied by Mrs. Coe. The trip was made by auto and the entire trip, which covered 950 miles, was made over splendid highways and only two pieces of construction were encountered and these did not cause detours of any extent.

Arriving in Washington Sunday evening, the first gathering was immediately attended. This was an informal get-together at the New Willard Hotel. Here one met old friends and made new ones rapidly. The ladies in attendance were quickly formed in line and then the men all introduced themselves. This informal gathering did much to create a feeling of good fellowship which was noticeable throughout the convention.

All business sessions were held in the new home of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America and was fitting indeed that this convention should be the first to use this new home of American business.

The keynote of the entire convention was struck by the first paper which was presented by S. Christy Mead, secretary of the Merchants' Association of New York City. He pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce movement had not been entirely free from the era of restlessness, jazz and the futurist movement. Activities ranging all the way from baby shows, horse racing and stock promotions to efforts to regulate all phases of community life, including politics, have been pursued. It, therefore, becomes evident that a reconsideration of basic principles and a return to fundamentals in the Chamber of Commerce movement is both desirable and necessary. The purposes of the organization, Mr. Mead said, are indicated in this definition: "A chamber of commerce is a voluntary organization in which the business units of a community, through membership, by cooperation and coordination of effort, endeavor to improve the conditions under which trade, commerce and industry must be conducted in order that the community may grow and develop."

The following major subjects were considered during the convention, each one being followed by discussion from the floor.

"Ethics and Cooperation Among Secretaries."

"Retail—Promotion and Protection."

"Industrial—Services to Industries."

"The Program—Its Fitness to the Community."

"Membership—Development and Assimilation."

"Financing—Plans for Sustaining Chambers of Commerce."

At the luncheon Monday noon the activities of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States were explained by the heads of the various departments and each in turn offered every assistance to local chambers.

The afternoon closed with an auto ride about the city tendered by the Washington Board of Trade. Monday evening the Fellowship Night was held with an informal program of music and dancing.

On Tuesday noon at luncheon the members were divided into groups: Cities of 10,000 and under, 10,000 to 30,000, 30,000 to 50,000, 50,000 and over, with the general subject of Building the Budget—Membership.

Tuesday afternoon a series of short papers on the subjects listed below:

"Handling Inquiries so as to Stimulate Chamber of Commerce Support."

"Community Financial Campaigns—Secretary's Relation Thereto."

"The Art of Winning the Chronic Knockers."

"Twentieth Century Stunts—Radio, etc."

"Converting Liabilities Into Assets."

"Community Publicity and Advertising."

"The Chamber of Commerce and the Schools—Reaching Tomorrow's Potential Members."

Following these papers a Question Box, conducted by Colin B. Brown, Chief, Organization Service Bureau of U. S. Chamber. This part of the program is always looked forward to by those in attendance with much anticipation and is handled by Mr. Brown in a most interesting and instructive manner.

The annual banquet Tuesday night was a most enjoyable affair. Not the least of interest was the award of diplomas to twenty-four graduates of the National School for Commercial and Trade Executives by Richard E. Heilmann, Dean, Northwestern University.

The Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, in his address declared, "You can't legislate people into being good. You can't make all such laws you please—and we have some brilliant examples—but unless you can get into the mind and moral consciousness of the man they will be of little avail. Bishop Freeman also declared that many communities had too many civic bodies for the welfare of the cities and said that we went to congress weakened because of many small voices instead of one strong voice."

Richard P. Grant, the newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, made a distinct hit with his fearless manner in handling his subject.

He said, that "It was no so long ago when the business man was a tremendous asset to himself and a total loss to the people at large."

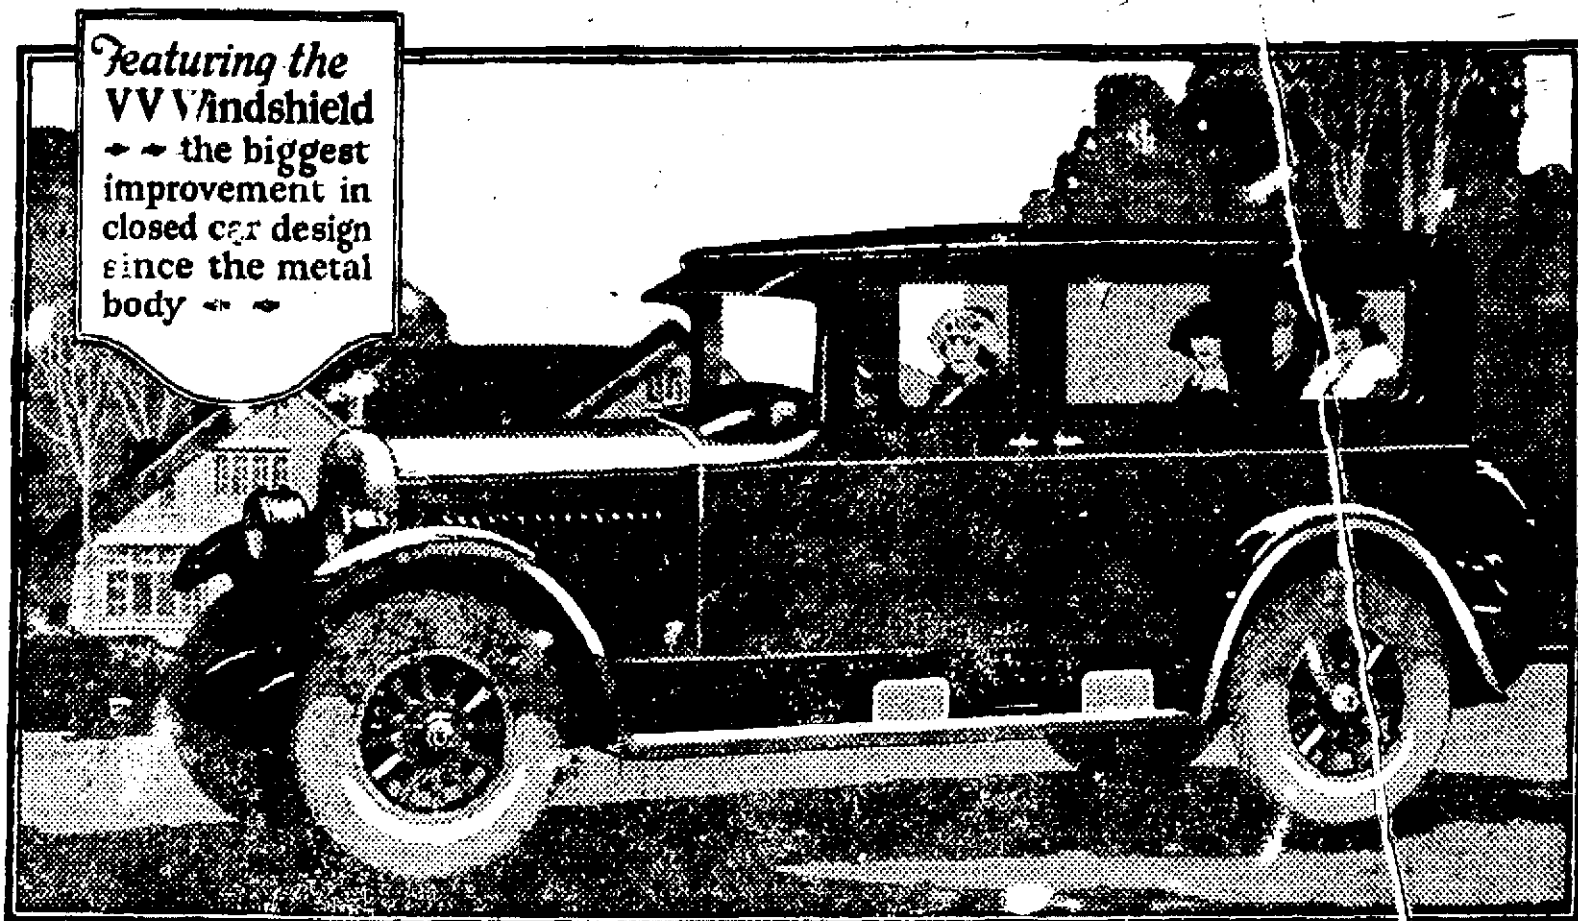

The Chamber of Commerce is teaching them that to help the community is their greatest function."

AURORA BLAMELESS.

Local Disturbances, Not Northern Lights, Caused Radio Troubles.

Kingston, October 25, 1924.

To the Editor of The Freeman,

Sir: The page of "What's the Matter Pop?" in Sunday's edition of the newspapers reminds an old radio fan of the questions asked last week of the Electric Light Company as to what leakage in their lines was shutting off radio sets, and causing interruptions that sounded like a load of coal running down a metal coal chute.

There was a bigger electric plant than the Kingston Gas & Electric that caused the interruption. It was the sun sending an extra charge to the earth, which was shown by a fine auroral display in the north and seen by those up all night. When there are any northern lights nothing in the radio line can break through or be heard but the heat of the Morse code by some of the most powerful stations. During an auroral display the amateur may as well close up his box, and wait for the solar electric storm to clear up. Don't bother the Electric Light Company.

AN OLD RADIO FAN.

This is very true so far as concerns the noise "like a load of coal," but the matter the Kingston Gas & Electric Company was looking into, as stated in The Freeman, was something else. General disturbances are caused by influences beyond control of man, but local disturbances are often subject to control. The one referred to by The Freeman was of this kind and the cause of it was found and remedied.

Million Car Week Breaks Record

Greatest Number of Freight Cars Loaded in Any Week in History of Railroads—Record Crops Moved Without Delay.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 28.—More railroad cars were loaded with revenue freight during the week ending October 18, than during any other single week in history. It was announced here today.

It was "a million car week." 1,102,336 cars being loaded and dispatched to destinations, exceeding by 4,843 the previous high record established in September, 1923.

"Not only does this figure represent the highest car loading for any single week in the history of American railroads, but the new high record was accomplished without transportation disability, according to a statement issued by the American Railway Association. Today there are about 300,000 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service when needed, while the railroads have approximately 5,400 serviceable locomotives in storage, about twice as many as they had at this time last year.

"Record breaking grain crops have been moved without a single reported car shortage from western states. The California perishable producers heretofore have been confronted with periodical car shortages, but this year there has been no shortage of refrigerator car equipment."

Marshall Was Not Ashamed of Fees

Former Democratic Vice President Says He Was Forced to Accept Pay for Lectures or to "Steal or Resign."

While declining to comment on the statement widely published by Democratic newspapers that President Coolidge while vice president accepted a fee of $250 for addressing a memorial meeting of war veterans, Thomas R. Marshall, who served as vice president of the United States during the eight years that Woodrow Wilson was president, announced in New York city on Monday that when he was vice president he was forced to accept pay for Chautauqua lectures or to "steal or resign."

Joseph J. Devine, a Bridgeport, Conn., lawyer, who was wounded while he was overseas, brought up the fee paid to President Coolidge for the address he delivered while vice president during a meeting at Newark, N. J., last Saturday night. Efforts to get President Coolidge to reply to the statement were not successful.

Former Vice-President Marshall was interviewed at the Davis headquarters in the Hotel Belmont, New York city, on Monday.

"I have no comment to make and I refuse to be drawn into any controversy," said the former vice president. "I do not care to say anything either approving or disapproving what Mr. Coolidge has done. I am interested in defeating the Republican party, but not in criticizing the president of the United States."

"I am not a candidate for office, and any comparison between Mr. Coolidge's conduct and mine is wholly uncalled for. No one familiar with the circumstances will doubt that I went on the Chautauqua platform and received compensation for addresses made there while vice president. I either had to do it, steal or resign. I have no apologies to make to the American people for

Murphy-DuBois Battle Now On

Not "Who Took Grand-Pre" But Who Takes Honors In Ticket Selling For Victory Ball—Sale Of Tickets Begun.

The question of who took Grand-Pre, one of the moot points of the A. E. F.'s field operation, especially when veterans of the 77th and 78th Divisions get together, thus seems to hinge on the definition of the verb "to take." Certainly the 77th troops were the first in the town, and from October 15th on the Germans could hardly claim that Grand-Pre was in their possession. But if "to take" be defined as "taking" of Grand-Pre must be credited to the 78th Division. Considering the difficulty of the operation and the importance of the capture, a neutral observer—which means anyone outside the 77th and 78th Divisions—will conclude that the two divisions have a right to divide the glory.

Both of the divisions contained a large number of Kingston and Ulster county men.

The days of October 1918 are history to the defenders. They are thinking of days in October 1924. Not who took Grand-Pre, but "Who takes the honors in selling the most tickets for the American Legion's Victory Ball to be held at the Armory, Tuesday evening, November 11, 1924, Armistice Day."

Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., and Herman J. DuBois are captains of two ticket selling teams, with many workers on each team. The teams are now busy and the public is asked to receive them cordially when they call to make a sale.

It was the only way I could live. Feeling over the spread by the Democratic National Committee of the Bridgeport lawyer's statement as a "charge" against President Coolidge is heightened by the comment said to have been made in Democratic headquarters in Washington that it was "the best story of the campaign."

Gipsy Moth Battle Ground

Danger From This Pest Confined To The Hudson Valley—Conservation Commission Fight During Summer.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 28.—Henry L. McIntyre of the Conservation Commission, supervisor of gipsy moth control, who is in active charge of the work of keeping this most dangerous forest, fruit and shade tree pest out of New York state, has completed the disposal of his forces for their winter work and checked up the results of his summer work. Of the results obtained this year, he says:

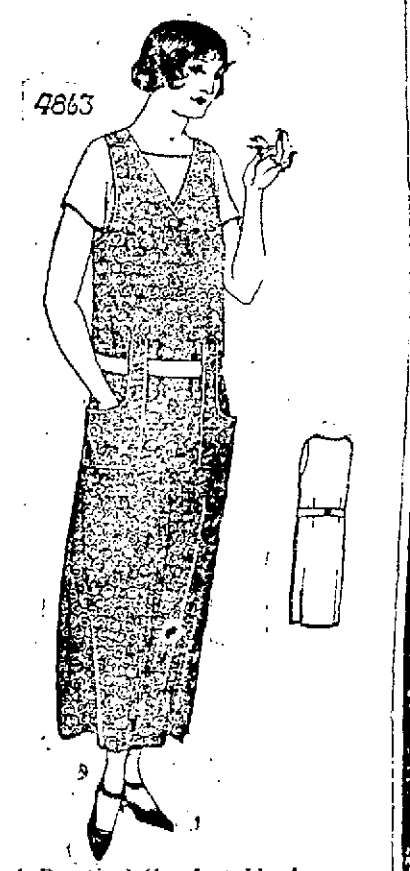

"More than one hundred men are now actually engaged in the Hudson valley in the battle to keep the gipsy moth out of New York state. The fight against this insect, undertaken by the conservation commission over a year ago, was diligently pursued in the Hudson valley during the past year."

"During the summer months quite an extensive survey of the state west of the Hudson river, in search of this insect, failed to reveal its presence, which at the present time indicates that the danger of an invasion of the state by this pest is still confined to the Hudson valley. Hence, the renewal of the vigorous campaign in that section. It also indicates that the act of the conservation commission in this attempt, both as to location and date of starting the fight, was a timely one."

"Extremely encouraging results have been secured in the past year's campaign. Present indications are that complete eradication of all colonies found in the barrier zone area in New York state has been secured. Equally encouraging reports have been received from the Federal Bureau of Entomology on conditions in the section of the barrier zone in New England over which they have supervision. It now seems that the continuance of this vigorous campaign will keep this most undesirable enemy of shade, fruit and forest trees out of the state."

"Congratulations on the success of one year's campaign are, however, in order when taking into consideration that millions of dollars have been expended in the fight against this insect in New England and a yearly increase in size of territory was evident until the past year when the fight was taken up by the conservation commission."

HOW TO GROW A DIAMOND

A TRAVELLER one day heard a man
make the assertion that he knew how to grow diamonds. A friend accused him of either being a real genius or an enemy of the truth. And insisted on knowing something of this discovery. The whole truth and nothing but the truth, so William tells him: I learned this method from Safford & Scudder (My Jeweller) in Kingston. They formed a Diamond Growing Club, and the members started by selecting a small diamond and later had it exchanged for a larger stone, and in every transaction he allowed full purchase price of the last diamond bought. I joined the Club and planted $25.00 in a small diamond. It was a small diamond I knew. The next month, cutting down on my smokes, side-tracking a few movies, left me a little surplus, so when I again hit Kingston I had $20.00 to the good,
so I looked up My Jeweller and traded the developed for a $15.00 diamond. I did this over and over again, till now have a real beauty, blue-white and a Perfect Diamond,
the kind My Jeweller sells.

Cordially yours,

SAFFORD & SCUDDER

Disqualify Eight
Navy Players

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Annapolis, Md., Oct. 28.—On the eve of their important contest with Penn State next Saturday, the Navy
football hopes, already badly shattered by the loss of three games out of four starts, received almost a crushing blow today with the disqualification of eight players for one month because of poor scholarship.
Chances of the eight for starting in the Army game November 24
were said to be almost seriously impaired.

Those disqualified were: Allan
Shapely, quarterback; Royce Tippet,
left half; Gus Bentz, left guard; Bill
Osborne, center; Hubert Jones,
quarterback; and Maloney, all backs, and Horner, a line man.

Percy D. Haughton's Death Severe
Blow to Columbia Squad—
Achievements on Gridiron Recognized in Football Circles.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 28.—Percy D.
Haughton, wonder worker of the gridiron, died from an attack of heart disease as he stood on the brink of his greatest achievement,
today was mourned by his followers
at Columbia University and by his friends on every rival campus
throughout the east.

He died in harness, from an illness which struck as he was pulling
on his football togs just before going to the practice field where he had moulded the first representative football team Columbia has had in ten years. His death came less than 48 hours after the blue and white's decisive victory of Williams, a victory which convinced football followers that he could transplant to Columbia the Haughton system
made famous at Harvard in his nine years as head coach there.

It was his second season as head coach at Columbia and improved
showing of the blue and white
eleven held promise that the Haugh-
ton "will to win" and systematic discipline were producing something Columbia had not known in years—
a winning team.

Haughton was 49 years old. His home was in Boston. A football and baseball star at Harvard as a member of the class of 1893. He returned as coach to his Alma Mater
in 1908 and in nine years brought the crimson five victories, two ties
and two defeats in the all-important
games with Yale. Before Haughton, Harvard had gained but three victories to Yale's twenty-one. The Haughton system won 71 games and died five out of 83.

No announcement had been made
early today regarding the Columbia-Cornell game Saturday, which may be called off. It was not known whether the Columbia team would complete the season's schedule.

Original Celtics, claimants of the championship of professional basketball, take the court at the armory
they will face a quietest that should extend them to their utmost to come out a winner.

That the Shamrock five is a formidable outfit is well known in basketball circles and any team capturing a game from them can also be considered formidable. Manager Morsegreen will start in all probability tomorrow night the Husla brothers in front. Powers at center and Renda and Artus in the backfield. Sims and Miller may also enter the struggle before finishing time. The finished players on the Shamrock wearing squad, which include Beckman, Dehnert, Leonard, Barry, Holman and Lopchick have appeared in Kingston and know the task before them.

The game is scheduled for the usual time, at 8:30 o'clock with dancing after the struggle.

Easy Way to Heat Soldering Irons

Gas Burner May Be Used in Building This Simple Home Outfit.

If the experimenter does not possess
an electric soldering iron, he finds it
a great inconvenience to heat his iron on the gas range in the kitchen. This trouble can be eliminated by constructing a small soldering iron heater which can be used anywhere there is a gas supply.

To construct this heater, it will be necessary to procure an inexpensive gas burner. With a file or hacksaw carestructed From Inexpensive Burner.

fully cut the top off, as shown by the dotted line in the diagram. An old gas light bracket should be obtained,
mounted on a board and the burner screwed into it. A rubber tube may lead from the burner to the nearest gas jet. The gas is turned on full and the burner lit. If it flashes back, that is, lights at the bottom, the gas should be turned off and the top of the burner should be squeezed together slightly with a pair of pliers. It may take a few trials
to obtain the right size of the opening for best results. It is operating correctly when a roaring blue flame is obtained. A support for the iron consisting of a piece of stiff wire may also be mounted on the wooden block. It will be found that this burner is very efficient and heats a small soldering iron quickly.

Simple Arrangement to Remove Wire Insulation

When using a knife to remove the insulation from a cotton or rubber-covered wire it often results in a cut finger. Also, if this work is not done carefully, it is possible that a small fragment of copper in the shape of a splinter will be run into the hand.
Herein is described a little device
which will safely and easily remove the insulation from any size wire. All that is required is a strip of spring
brass 1-16 of an inch thick, 10 inches long, and 1 1/2 inches wide. This piece of brass should be bent into the shape

Wire Skinner is Made From Thick Piece of Spring Brass.

shown in the diagram. The two edges of the wire scraper should then be sharpened on one side only. To use this device it is held in the hand and the jaws forced together over the wire
so that it cuts through the insulation.
It is now pulled towards the end of the wire and if necessary the operation is repeated two or three times
until all of the insulation is removed.
This little instrument will prove extremely efficient in removing the insulation from heavy rubber-covered wire.—Radio News.

Fans Advised to Use
Jack for Every Stage

The present tendency of many radio
set builders is to employ only one jack for the detector and two stage.
While the builder is bound to do away with a lot of connections, etc., when following this scheme, at the same time he is a loser. When only one jack is used for the detector and amplifying
units, and trouble arises, the reader
is at a loss to ascertain in short order whether the trouble lies in the detector, the first or second stage amplifier. If a jack were available in the detector, first and second stage, it would be possible at once to discover the location of the trouble by simply
"plugging in" on the various units.

Therefore, when building a set, the feasible thing to do is to have a separate jack for each unit.

SHORT CIRCUITS

Leaving the storage battery completely discharged will probably cause trouble. If you intend to close down your radio set for any length of time
it is advisable to take the battery to some convenient service station where it will be taken care of.

One of the greatest disadvantages
of honeycomb coils is their propensity to absorb moisture during damp weather, causing leakage. The coils may be dried out by putting them in an oven of moderate temperature and can also be made moisture proof by immersing them in melted paraffin
until all bubbling has stopped.

WHAT A HUSBAND LOVES

HE JUST loves to be met at the door of an evening (before he has time to insert his key) with a kiss and the knowledge that his dinner is ready just as soon as he can get into his slippers and house coat.

And (despite all rumors to the contrary) he loves to have a finger in the domestic pie, and he consulted about the new carpet and asked for his views on the merits of the new
"wash-your-clothes-in-five-minutes" apparatus.

He loves to have his wife put his
the straight before she sends him for his day's work (even if he has already adjusted it perfectly three minutes before), and he likes to have her brush his coat collar and be permitted to growl when she rubs his neck.
(And, he likes another kiss, too.)

He loves to know when he gets home very late that she has been worrying her very heart out in case
"something had happened," and he likes to soothe her fears with a nice little packet of her favorite candy.

He loves to be ordered to wear his rubbers on rainy days and he likes to absolutely refuse to do so (and promises he will not walk in any puddles).

He likes to get a mild attack of the "flu" and have a nice nurse-wife fuss over him and look worried and anxious and kiss him fervently after his ammoniated quinine (raspberry flavored).

He loves to know the whole
household is (almost) disrupted, and
that everybody goes about on tip-toe,
and he loves to be coddled and petted
just as if he were in the last stages
of an incurable disease.

He loves to know that every time
a button comes off it will be put on again (without any fuss) and that his wife knows without being told when a suit wants cleaning.

He loves his wife to kiss him (on the top of his bald spot) and tell him
she loves every hair in his head.

He likes to be able to say to himself (when he is rushed to death and working at his very highest pressure)
that there is some one who appreciates everything he does for her, and is always ready with encouragement
and sympathy.

He loves to think that should reverses overtake them his wife would always be ready and willing to begin
right at the very beginning again—(cheerfully and uncomplainingly).

He loves his wife to be always smart and dainty at all times, for him (as well as for others).

He likes to know that while their home is run perfectly and efficiently
she does not make a slave of herself (and can manage her tasks and duties without giving the impression that she is worked to death).

He loves the splendid way she is bringing up his children (and he is glad that she is not as some other mothers who make their husbands
useful only for castigations.)

He loves his wife to laugh just as joyously as when they were engaged,
and he loves her to be capable of joking and jollifying (even though she is getting on toward forty).

He adores the wife who adores him
(and adores being married to him),
and because she openly acknowledges
that she wouldn't or couldn't wish for anything better.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

NOW that vitamins and complexes
fill a woman's life, she wonders
how she ever managed to exist, when she had nothing but babies, love and purling to think about.

To kiss or not to kiss—that is every bachelor's problem; whether 'tis wiser to keep a man guessing and run the risk of losing an invitation to the next dance, or to be responsive and run
the risk of losing him for life.

The most difficult thing about getting married is trying to think up some good excuse to give your friends for having "chosen" the particular man,
who happened to ask you.

Many a girl permits a man to think that he is "stringing" her, knowing that he will probably get so tangled up
in the string that it will end in a marriage tie.

It may be sad to be married to a naval officer who is almost always away, but it is far sadder to be married to an author or to a painter, who is almost always at home.

Nowadays, a chivalrous flapper
won't keep a sweet young college boy
out so late that his mother will worry about him.

No peace conference will ever end
the war of the sexes, so long as a man's desire is for conquest and personal glory and a woman's life-object is annexation.

Pirates and Cubs
Trade Players

Grimm, Maranville and Cooper Exchanged For Aldridge, Grantham
and Niehaus—Cubs Get Better of Deal, Paper Strength.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Chicago, Oct. 28.—Chicago fans
today were casting their eyes on the 1925 pennant in the National following the players deal which brought Grimm, Maranville and Cooper from the Pirates in exchange for Aldridge, Grantham and Niehaus.

On paper it is apparent that the Cubs got all the better of the trade.
In Charlie Grimm they obtained a top notch first sacker and gave up for him Albert Niehaus, a rookie who has yet to rank in the A-1 class. In Wilbur Cooper they obtained one of the best southpaws in the league,
who although not a youngster, won twenty games for the Pirates last season. In return for Cooper they gave up Vic Aldridge, a none too dependable twirler. In Rabbit Maranville they got the services of a brilliant ball player, a top notcher
among second basemen and gave for him George Grantham, none too
stable a fielder, who was spectacular
at times, but committed many misdeeds on the field.

The acquisition of the three Pirates
will give the Cubs the one attribute lacking in their makeup last season,
experienced players.

When the Cubs were making their fight for the pennant in mid-season
they were right on the heels of the then leading Giants. Fandom was all het up over the showing the team was making. But wise old followers of the game said "too much young blood; the team won't stand the gaff." These wise ones were right.

The Giants came to Chicago and handed the Cubs five straight defeats
just at a time when they could have hurdled the New York team had the defeats been victories. From then on the team never was in the hunt,
and shot further down the ladder,
showing a deficit of $4,065/511.

Thomas, fighting under auspices of the Military Police, Twenty-seventh division, special troop, fell without a blow being struck in the second round. He was counted out, but when he failed to respond to usual restorative methods, physicians were called. They said he had died when he collapsed.
